FEATURING

GARNER SANTA

LISA GARNER SANTA serves as Artist-Performer and Professor of Flute at Texas Tech University.

“The flutist has the kind of tone I prefer – rich, colorful, perfectly in control, and always in tune ... all well-shaped and thoughtful... a truly remarkable artist with dazzling musical ability.”

– American Record Guide

As an active member of the National Flute Association, Dr. Garner Santa has been a featured performer at numerous conventions. She has served as adjudicator and coordinator for many NFA events, most recently as Program Chair for the 2011 Convention. Her versatile programming ranges from the elegant Baroque music of Bach to the jazz-inspired writings of Mike Mower.

She presents masterclasses throughout the United States and abroad. In recognition of her creative teaching, she was awarded Texas Tech’s Big 12 Fellowship, the Alumni Association New Faculty Award and was elected to Texas Tech’s prestigious Teaching Academy.

Garner Santa holds performance degrees from West Texas State, Florida State, and The Shepherd School of Music at Rice University. She is also a 500-hour registered yoga teacher and leads Yoga for Musicians courses at the Texas Tech School of Music.
