

Abstract: In this talk, we will introduce the main ideas behind numerical approximation of partial differential equations by the boundary element method. As time permits, we will discuss one way to combine the partition of unity method and the boundary element method and a unique way to handle singularities.