Canvas Migration

Fall 2026

We have completed processing the Fall 2026 course migration requests submitted through the migration request forms. A small number of courses are still undergoing final review and will be placed in the appropriate Canvas shell soon. If you requested content for Fall 2026 to be migrated from D2L/iLearn to Canvas, please check your courses and review migrated content to prepare for the fall.

Spring 2027

Please submit requests for Spring 2027 content via our Canvas Course Migration Request Form as soon as possible. The CITL will process these requests during the Fall semester to help ensure that migrated content is available before each semester begins. Spring 2027 courses will receive priority in the next migration batch.

Additional Courses

The Canvas Course Migration Request form can also be used to request content migrations for other upcoming semesters. These requests will be processed in future batches based on semester priority and submission date.

Canvas Training

Canvas On Campus

Join us on August 3-5 for Canvas on Campus workshop sessions. Our Canvas trainer, Helen Wilson, will be on campus to facilitate workshops each day covering the basics of Canvas and digging into new topics such as portfolios and group work. View each day's schedule on our website and register to attend.

Weekly Workshops

Join us all summer long for weekly Canvas workshops as we work back through the content covered this spring. These workshops cover the basics of using Canvas and will help faculty become familiar with the course content and tools available within Canvas. Register for upcoming sessions on the CITL website.

Asynchronous Training

Asynchronous, self-paced trainings are now available for faculty, Teaching Assistants, and students. Each training is designed to help users navigate their role within Canvas and help establish best practices and consistent use across campus. Certificates of completion are awarded for each training. Learn more about each of our trainings on our website.
