Young Alum Nemoy Rau wins AIChE "35 under 35" award

By Beverley Nash

Nemoy Rau, Tech '08 chemical engineering alumnus, was honored as an American Institute of Chemical Engineering Young Professional. Rau was recognized as one of AIChE's "35 under 35 chemical engineers," for his significant contributions to AIChE and his profession.

"The winners represent a breadth of chemical engineering career paths," said Chris Lowe, past chair of AIChE's Young Professionals Committee and a member of the 35 Under 35 Award task force. "These young professionals show that the future of our profession is truly bright."

Rau is founder and vice president of US Biometrix – a brain sciences company that uses big data analytics to create an objective platform to measure cognition, behavior, and functional effectiveness for behavioral healthcare.
