Tips and Best Practices

AVAZA LSC offers Video Remote Interpreting (VRI) services designed to provide instant, accessible language support across diverse settings, including healthcare, legal, educational, and social services. Our VRI services bridge the gap for clients needing immediate, visual, and auditory communication solutions for Limited English Proficient (LEP) individuals, the Deaf and Hard of Hearing (DHH) community, and others requiring language assistance.

- When applicable, send any documents that might assist the interpreter in understanding the context.
- Define the expected duration of the session to help with scheduling (e.g., 15 minutes, 1 hour, or longer). Keep in mind we require 30 minute minimums
- Before ending the call, review any agreed–upon next steps or action items to ensure clarity for all parties.
- Confirm that all communication is complete before disconnecting.
- Explain the interpreter's role and emphasize the importance of clear, direct communication through the interpreter.
- Speak directly to the intended participant and try to maintain a natural flow of conversation.
- Allow time for interpretation, speaking in short sentences and pausing when necessary to allow the interpreter to relay the full message accurately.
- Please remember that most sessions are conduct in the "consecutive" mode of interpreting where each participant speaks one at a time, pausing and allowing the interpreter to interpret.
- If you don't wish for the Limited–in–English Proficiency (LEP) participant to know what you've said, don't say it. Interpreters interpret everything that is said, adding or omitting nothing.
- Remember that we do not interpret word–for–word. The goal of the professional interpreter is to accurately interpret the message and tone.
- Know that we are required to be impartial and avoid conflicts of interest in all sessions. Please refrain from asking the interpreter for their thoughts or opinions.
